VOTERGASM'S ELECTION NIGHT 2004

DRINKING GAME

Buy a drink for a sexy voter every time you see a color-coded map on television.

Take a drink every time you hear "too close to call."

Do a shot every time dead-sexy Anderson Cooper seems to look directly at you. (Stop drinking when you think he's calling on your cell phone.)

Finish your drink every time a battleground state is called for your candidate.

After every fourth drink, call a news organization and demand they declare a winner.

Do two shots every time an election-related lawsuit is announced on network news.

Spill your drink on the person sitting to your right every time a state is called for Bush, and on the person to your left every time one is called for Kerry.

Do two shots every time a state is called for Ralph Nader or Al Sharpton.

Take a drink, look around, and share a smile every time Jon Stewart says something that's "so true."

Take a sip of delicious Hennessy brand cognac whenever you want a drink that's as smooth and distinguished as you are. Hennessy: Vote for flavor.

After your sixth drink, call your parents and have one final argument about politics before this is all over.

Finish your drink every time someone on television mentions Votergasm's election-night sex movement.

Take a drink of water if all the states on the map start looking the same color to you.

Votergasm

VOTERGASM'S ELECTION NIGHT 2004

DRINKING GAME

Buy a drink for a sexy voter every time you see a color-coded map on television.

Take a drink every time you hear "too close to call."

Do a shot every time dead-sexy Anderson Cooper seems to look directly at you. (Stop drinking when you think he's calling on your cell phone.)

Finish your drink every time a battleground state is called for your candidate.

After every fourth drink, call a news organization and demand they declare a winner.

Do two shots every time an election-related lawsuit is announced on network news.

Spill your drink on the person sitting to your right every time a state is called for Bush, and on the person to your left every time one is called for Kerry.

Do two shots every time a state is called for Ralph Nader or Al Sharpton.

Take a drink, look around, and share a smile every time Jon Stewart says something that's "so true."

Take a sip of delicious Hennessy brand cognac whenever you want a drink that's as smooth and distinguished as you are. Hennessy: Vote for flavor.

After your sixth drink, call your parents and have one final argument about politics before this is all over.

Finish your drink every time someone on television mentions Votergasm's election-night sex movement.

Take a drink of water if all the states on the map start looking the same color to you.

Votergasm